AFRICA by NUMBERS

Introduction

Arterial Network is a Pan-African civil society active in the creative sphere, with members in more than 50 of the 55 African countries. At the launch of Arterial Network in March 2007, delegates listed the lack of information as being a key deficiency in their efforts to network across the continent, to develop policy positions and to undertake advocacy in the interests of the creative sector. We have responded to this need by producing a monthly newsletter that is distributed now to a database of more than 15 000 people globally; by launching an online directory of information about the creative sector in each African country www.artsinfrica.com, and by publishing the Arts in Africa Directory.

This booklet – Africa by Numbers – continues in this vein of providing important information to empower and inform the sector. Africa is a vast continent, with very varied conditions between and within countries. While there are often attempts to develop “African” positions on particular matters, or to respond to “African” conditions in terms of policy and strategies, the reality is that countries vary considerably in terms of economic, political, developmental, technological, cultural and other factors. This requires interrogation of international and regional policies and strategies developed to help solve African problems, and to do this with information covering a broad range of issues that collectively impact on our sector.

In this way, we will be able to inform ourselves as the creative sector and see the links between our challenges and opportunities on the one hand, and the broader regional and international conditions on the other; to test whether the policies and strategies introduced to us are valid or not, and to help us to develop nuanced responses to the varied conditions on the continent rather than adopt a one-size-fits-all approach.

This is an introductory booklet produced for the purpose of the African Creative Economy Conference 2013. It will enable us to reflect critically on the relevance of the creative economy and the creative industries as real or potential drivers of economic growth, and as contributors to broader social and human development, and even to consider whether this should be a priority for the African creative sector in its entirety.

Arterial Network welcomes feedback, corrections, amendments and proposals for additions from delegates and through the Conference presentations and discussions, we will assess what further information is required. This booklet then be updated, translated into the key languages of the continent, and made available to our members, partners and other interested parties by the end of 2013.

Given the relevance of the information to our work, it is likely that this information will be updated on an annual basis, and be made available at least on our websites: www.arterialnetwork.org and www.artsinafrica.com.

We would like to express our deep gratitude to Africalia, a core partner of Arterial Network, for providing the funding to support the research for, and the production of this publication.
